Hands off our lollipops!

LOLLIPOP men and women could lose their jobs under proposals put forward by cash-strapped Essex County Council.

Schools with patrols on zebra or pelican crossings will have to pay £5,860 each year if they want to keep their road crossing guardians. In Harlow, patrols at Potter Street Academy and William Martin Primary School are at risk.

Patrols are not a legal requirement for authorities and initially 55 school crossing patrols in Essex will be affected. But County Hall also plans to negotiate a "more equitable funding arrangement" with all 203 schools where it provides a crossing patrol service in the autumn.

GEMMA GARDNER

Potter Street lollipop lady Jane Chivall, who has been helping children cross the road safely for almost 20 years, said: "It's not the job; it's the child's life that is important. This is absolutely appalling."

She believed the decision will lead to more traffic on the roads as fewer children walk to school, adding: "It is astonishing that Essex County Council should even consider cutting this vital safety service for schoolchildren."

This week a petition launched by Harlow MP Robert Halfon has already collected almost 100 signatures.

He told the Star: "They provide a vital service for our school children, are important figures of reassurance for our community and help keep roads safe and speeding to a minimum," he said.

"I am fighting hard in our community and will do so in Parliament to do everything we can to ensure we have a school crossing patrol service that is second to none."

The county council is undergoing a spending review to cope with a central government funding shortfall, the impact of inflation and increasing demand for services.

Off with her hair! Ella to have locks chopped for charity

A YOUNGSTER is planning to have her long hair cut short to raise funds for charity. Ella Ballard was born with a blood disorder and, as a result of suffering complications with her condition, had her spleen removed last September. Now the plucky nine-year-old wants to help other sick children.

"Ella had the operation in September and spent three or four weeks off school recovering," said her mother, Sarah-Jayne, of Sheering. "Now she is doing really well with her jujitsu and ballet and is so much more energetic."

She added: "I plait her sisters' hair and I said as a joke that we should just chop it off to save me time. Ella instantly agreed and said she wanted to do it if she could also help someone with it."

Ella will donate her locks to the The Little Princess Trust which makes wigs for children undergoing cancer treatment. The money she raises will go to Children with Cancer UK.

Year 5 pupil Ella will be having her hair cut during assembly at Sheering Primary School on Tuesday, April 29.

Sarah said: "At school they have been learning a lot about bullying and how someone feels if they are bullied and what you should do to help stop it and I think that stuck with her."

"She said she wanted to help another child like her. She said she wanted to make another child smile and that's what's making her so excited."

"I'm very proud of her, she has already raised over £300 and keeps wanting to raise more. Whatever she raises, everyone is proud of her and what she's doing." To sponsor Ella visit <http://uk.virginmoneygiving.com/EllaBallardMegaHairCut>.

Fury at threat to school road safety patrols

ing £235m by 2016-17 will require "tough decisions" and that all areas of expenditure are under scrutiny.

Harlow youth councillor Clifford Tsungu said: "Is the loss of a child's life more important than £50 a week for a lollipop lady or man?" Harlow Youth Council will be standing up for the safety of our children and stopping Essex County Council making another mistake."

Suzi Stride, Labour's parliamentary candidate for Harlow, said: "Lollipop ladies and men play a vital role in the community, everyday protecting our children. Along with the community, I will be fighting to save these vital services from Essex Tory cuts."

"I'm encouraging every child, teenager, parent and member of the public to write to Essex County Council to support our lollipop ladies and men and to share their personal stories of why they are so important."

An Essex County Council spokeswoman said: "Due to the current economic climate and the pressure on local authority budgets we are reviewing the delivery of many aspects of public service, particularly non-statutory services."

"In relation to the school crossing patrol service, Essex County Council will shortly be sharing a proposal with employees and schools potentially affected."

"Until we have met with employees, and informed schools about these proposals, we are unable to provide any further details and no decisions have yet been taken regarding this."

Rape accused freed after trial collapses

THE trial of a Harlow man accused of rape and trying to deliberately infect a woman with HIV collapsed this week after the prosecution announced it would no longer be seeking convictions.

Prosecutor Kate Davey told Chelmsford Crown Court that, following a high level review, the Crown would not be continuing its case against Botswana-born Malani Kumwenda, 32, of Collins Meadow.

As a result, judge John Dodd directed the jury to return not guilty verdicts on all seven charges and Mr Kumwenda was discharged.

The defendant had denied rape, attempting to cause grievous bodily harm with intent due to his infection, sexual assault, three offences of assault by penetration and assault causing actual bodily harm.

The case was halted after the jury

star@hertsexnews.co.uk

had heard a week of evidence during which the complainant spent two-and-a-half days in the witness box.

The judge added that he would be expressing his concerns about the case in writing, although he did not state to whom.

But at the end of last week he commented to jurors about "sloppy police practice" which he said might impact upon the fairness of the proceedings.

His remark followed the evidence of a police officer during which it came to light he had not made notes about some conversations with the alleged victim. The Crown Prosecution Service had been unaware of those conversations.

There had also been issues about non-disclosure of prosecution evidence to the defence.

In the absence of the jury the judge also commented on the complainant's allegations and her inconsistent statements.

The prosecution alleged that Mr Kumwenda, who was diagnosed as HIV positive in June 2011, had sex with the 29-year-old woman after that date. She has been tested and remains HIV negative.

But Mr Kumwenda denied he had sex with her after he was diagnosed and denied that any of the woman's allegations happened.

The court heard the woman also made two other allegations to police after the rape claim - one that Mr Kumwenda had threatened to kill her and the other related to immigration.

In both matters police arrested Mr Kumwenda and interviewed him but took no further action.

READERS LETTERS

Commonwealth celebrations were a complete whitewash

SIR, I read with interest the article on the Commonwealth Day celebrations (Star, March 13). My curiosity was raised by the picture taken outside Harlow Council's offices.

I noticed that everyone in the picture was white and, presumably, British. However, the Commonwealth is a voluntary association of 53 independent and equal sovereign states that span the continents of Africa, Asia, the Americas, Europe and the Pacific and so naturally contains people of different colour and religions.

All member states subscribe to the values and principles outlined in The Commonwealth Charter. The charter comprises 16 fundamental principles and the fourth of these is entitled 'Tolerance, Respect and Understanding'.

Principle 4 reads as follows: 'We emphasise the need to promote tolerance, respect, understanding, moderation and religious freedom which are essential to the development of free and democratic societies, and recall that respect for the dignity of all human beings is critical to promoting peace and prosperity. We accept that diversity and understanding the richness of our multiple identities are fundamental to the Commonwealth's principles and approach.'

I acknowledge the rich diversity of the Commonwealth but I wonder if Harlow Labour Council does so? I would like to know why three Labour councillors who originate from the Africa region of the Commonwealth, two from Ghana and one from Mauritius were not in the picture? I believe at least one of three Labour councillors - Doku, Pritchard and Forman - would have attended if invited.

Why would a Labour-run council not promote diversity? This is especially important for local authorities as the public sector equality duty contained in The Equality Act 2010 says: "The Equality Duty ensures that all public bodies play their part in making society fairer by tackling discrimination and providing equality of opportunity for all."

In Harlow it would appear, judging by the picture, equality of opportunity is delivered in 50 shades of white!

County planners must work together to solve congestion

SIR, I am very concerned about the proposed junction 7a on the M11.

I regularly use the A414 to Hertford, the A1184 to Bishop's Stortford and also occasionally go down to junction 7 of the M11 during rush-hour. It is not uncommon to find traffic queues approaching a mile long on these roads, especially on the A414.

It is quite obvious that the traffic problems encountered in Harlow are

THIS week's photo was taken by Simon Clarke, of Felmongers, Harlow. "It is a small tortoiseshell on purple heather, taken in a Harlow garden when I was working," he writes. "Hopefully one of many more at the onset of spring."

If you have a photo taken in or around the town which you would like to feature in our Photo of the Week section, email a high resolution copy in JPEG format, along with a description of your photo and details of when and where it was taken, to star@hertsessexnews.co.uk. Please include your name and address and insert 'Photo of the Week' in the subject line.

caused by the traffic coming into the town from these roads. Sir Frederick Gibberd obviously did a good job in trying to keep Harlow isolated from the surrounding road systems.

Surely it would make more sense if an input road to the M11 were to run north of Harlow and Sawbridgeworth from the roundabout east of Eastwick Farm cross country to the M11. This is just common sense and would, of course, solve both long-term and short-term problems.

However, it would mean that the planners in both Essex and Hertfordshire would need to work together to produce a much-needed relief road which would solve two problems - congestion in Harlow and the A414 and congestion on the A1184 in Hertfordshire.

This would also relieve a lot of air and noise pollution - a green solution as well.

I wholeheartedly agree with the points your correspondent, Peter Smith, made in his letters to the Star (February 27).

I would also like to point out that there is no obvious place to make these comments on the Harlow Council website relating to the junction 7a plan for the M11.

E.M. Allen
Sheering Road, Harlow

It seems to me someone has fiddled with the traffic flows

SIR, As a resident of Old Harlow driving each day to east London, it is only me that thinks someone has fiddled with the traffic flows onto the M11 since the proposals were announced to develop a new junction from Gilden Way?

Apart from odd days, it rarely used to take any more than five minutes to get on to junction 7. But in the past few weeks it has taken at least 15 minutes and sometimes longer.

Maybe I'm just paranoid or is it a sign to move to east London?!

Philip Waterfield
St John's Avenue, Old Harlow

Gilden Way should be part of speed reduction plans

SIR, In the March 6 edition of the Star there was a public notice placed by Essex County Council in respect of a reduction in speed limits on certain roads in the area.

The roads affected are Hobbs Cross Road, Harlow and Roydon Road (Harlow)/Harlow Road (Roydon). The proposal is to reduce speed limits on these roads to 40mph.

This is excellent news, so well done Essex County Council. But what about Gilden Way? This road, of all the roads in Harlow, should be subjected to a 40mph speed limit.

People have been killed on this road. I know, as a cyclist who uses it frequently, that the current derestricted status of this is nonsense.

Will we have to wait for more casualties before something is done?

The news about Hobbs Cross Road and Roydon/Harlow Road gives me hope; don't let that hope be misplaced.

Old Orchard, Harlow

Labour council's intolerable burden on the working class

SIR, That Harlow Foodbank has seen a 59 per cent increase in demand for its services in the past year (Star, March 6) may not be unconnected with the fact that more than one in five jobless householders have been referred to bailiffs by Harlow Council for recovery of unpaid council tax.

This unprecedented use of bailiffs against the unemployed is a consequence of the cut in council tax relief inflicted on jobless householders by Harlow Council in April 2013. Those who were once exempt from council tax are now required to pay a minimum of 24 per cent.

According to data released by Harlow Council in response to a Freedom of Information request, there were 3,654 jobless householders in the town, of which 1,976 (54 per cent) had defaulted on their council tax bills for 2013-2014, 1,605 (44 per cent) had received court summonses for non-payment and 809 (22 per cent) had been referred to bailiffs, as of February 10 this year.

Council Tax Benefit, which provided those without employment with council tax rebates, was abolished by the government and replaced with Localised Council Tax Support in April 2013. Each council now has its own scheme.

Twenty-eight per cent of councils in England decided to continue providing 100 per cent council tax rebates to jobless householders, whereas Harlow Council decided to provide a maximum of 76 per cent relief and withdraw all assistance to those with savings of more than £6,000.

It is a disgrace that a Labour council has inflicted an intolerable council tax burden on the working class householders who have least, and is dispatching bailiffs to seize the property of people impoverished by lack of work, by sickness, by disability. If veteran members of Harlow Labour Party do not protest about this state of affairs then I suggest that they have lost their moral compass.

CHAMPIONS: Church Langley Primary School students with their reading challenge trophy

Primary school youngsters win reading challenge

BOOKWORMS had cause for celebration at Church Langley Primary School after being awarded a trophy from the Essex Library service.

The Church Langley Way primary received the trophy after having the highest percentage of children to take part in the Essex Libraries' Summer Reading challenge 2013 compared to any other school in the town.

Literacy co-ordinator at Church Langley Primary School Kate Edmondson said: "We are delighted that so many of our children took up the challenge and have won the first Reading Challenge Cup.

"We are very proud of the children and their dedication to reading over the summer holidays. We're sure that this love of reading will continue throughout the year and in forthcoming holidays."

More than 5,000 young people took part in the ECC summer challenge.

Youth service cuts 'will be reviewed'

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

PLANS to cut youth services in Essex by almost 50 per cent have been approved despite concerns about a lack of volunteers to plug gaps in the service.

Essex County Council's cabinet agreed to cut services for 13-19 year-olds to £3.4m in February - a move which will save the authority £2.6m by 2017.

The Tory-run council said it would not close any youth clubs but instead see them run by volunteers, with some council support.

But a group of Labour councillors asked for the decision to be reviewed by the council's scrutiny committee amid concerns that there would not be enough volunteers in each area served by the youth clubs.

On Wednesday the committee backed the decision but agreed the plans should be reviewed in six months time.

Leader of the Labour Group Cllr Julie Young said: "Young people told us that the professional support and advice delivered by our youth workers was what they valued most, this model concentrates on buildings and does not protect staff.

"We welcome the support of the committee in agreeing with us that a six month review is needed. The jury is out and we will be watching implementation very closely."

The group included Harlow county councillor Mike Danvers.

The plan is that next year's budget will be cut to £3.4m from £5m this year, falling to £2.5m from 2015 and £2.4m from 2016.

The Conservative-led council said there will be "some reduction" in staffing, but was unable to say how many jobs would go, although "redundancies would be kept to a minimum".

Museum launches club for budding young historians

A NEW club for young people interested in heritage and history will be officially launched on Saturday by Harlow Museum.

The club, named 'yh group', is aimed at 14-25 year-olds interested in a career within the heritage sector.

Membership to the group is free, but organisers will be asking for a £2 donation at each session to help cover the group's costs.

Museum manager Jon O' Connor said: "We hope to involve yh group - which stands for young historians - in helping us shape the future of Harlow Museum. We can also help group members if they are interested in a career within the heritage sector.

"We want to hear from anyone that may be interested in joining or helping us with this initiative. We are developing exciting plans for Harlow Museum over the next few years and we want to make sure that yh group is very much part of that future."

Hospice runners with a spring in their step

THE weather was perfect when more than 400 runners lined up for St Clare Hospice's 20th anniversary 10k road race on Sunday.

The first man back was Andrew Mynott in a time of 33 minutes and 46 seconds, closely followed by Darren Trelawny (35m 15s) and Patrick Davoren (35m 22s).

Liz Davies took first place in the ladies race with a personal best of 37 minutes 01 seconds. Megan Evans (38m 47s) was second with Clare Thurgood (38m 52s) third.

Donald Campbell, from Harlow Athletic Club, was the junior winner, crossing the line in a time of 42 minutes and 18 seconds.

The first wheelchair racer to cross the finish line was Paralympic World Cup gold medalist Richard Chiassaro in a time of 27 minutes and 40 seconds. In all, there were four wheelchair racers and a visually impaired runner accompanied by his guide.

The top teams were Grange Farm and Dunmow Runners (men) and Bishop's Stortford Running Club (women).

Rebecca Barnett, events fundraiser for St Clare, said: "It was an absolutely fantastic day and we would like to say a huge congratulations to all our runners and everyone who supported the event to make our 20th anniversary race such a success.

"It was lovely to see so many spectators turn out to support the runners and cheer them along the route and across the finish line."

Bingo tax cut victory for jubilant Halfon

CHANCELLOR George Osborne praised campaigning Harlow MP Robert Halfon as he announced a cut in bingo duty during yesterday's Budget speech.

Mr Osborne said the number of bingo halls had "plummeted" by three quarters over the past 30 years and so bingo duty would be halved to 10 per cent.

A delighted Mr Halfon told the Star: "I have been campaigning on [bingo tax] as I know our bingo club very well. They are one of the best, if not the best, bingo clubs in the country; the staff are incredible, members are unbelievable and I am over the moon about the cut.

"It means a better club, more jobs and bigger prizes as there will now be investment in the Harlow bingo club. Given that we have around 54,000 members, it's great news."

Speaking about other measures announced by Mr Osborne in the Commons, Mr Halfon said: "This is the workers' budget from a workers' party.

"We have cut taxes for 25 million lower earners, raised the tax threshold, invested in 100,000 apprenticeships, there will be 200,000 new houses - affordable housing - cutting taxes on savings for lower earners as well which is perfect for people on low incomes who have smaller amounts of money in their savings, and we will continue to freeze fuel duty. It is a budget for workers.

"There is a real focus on helping those hard working and on lower incomes."

But Suzy Stride, Labour's parliamentary candidate for Harlow, said the Government does not care about the people of Harlow.

She added: "Labour in government would

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

tackle the cost of living crisis people in Harlow are facing. Labour would freeze energy bills, cut business rates, build 200,000 homes a year and give jobs to unemployed people through the jobs guarantee.

"George Osborne keeps talking about a recovery but people in Harlow are £1,600 worse off under the Tories than they were under Labour.

"Each family is £861 worse off because of Osborne's tax and benefit changes but he still managed to find the money to give a tax cut to millionaires. At the same time he has introduced 24 different tax rises.

"Bankers in London have seen their pay go up more than five times as fast as the average worker. It's clear which part of the population Osborne cares about and it's his mates in the City and not the people of Harlow."

Businesses investing in Harlow's Enterprise Zone have also been given a boost with a range of measures designed to help businesses in the area including the extension of Business Rates Discount for a further three years.

Employment allowance, the fuel duty freeze and a focus on reducing energy costs is also hoped to help create savings in Harlow's business community and encourage job creation.

David Miles, chairman of the Essex branch of the Federation of Small Businesses, said: "This was always going to be a 'steady-as-you-go' budget for business designed to get the UK's financial affairs in order."

Victims of domestic violence to get help

A POLICY has been adopted by Harlow Council to offer support to its employees affected by domestic violence.

On Thursday cabinet members agreed proposals which will offer victims confidentiality, referral information, work adjustments, counselling and legal assistance. The policy covers domestic abuse, forced marriage and honour-based abuse.

Council leader Mark Wilkinson (Labour) said: "There has been a sad history of this in Harlow over the past couple of years. I hope it's a policy that we never have to use but it provides a safety net. I think it is a really important milestone."

Opposition leader councillor Andrew Johnson (Conservative) said: "This is something that both sides of

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

the chamber can get behind. Domestic violence and domestic abuse is vile. It happens with both sexes and happens all across society."

Referring to honour-based abuse, he said: "There is no honour in these killings. It's part of the culture of this country now and we need to make sure we know what's going on in the world and how we deal with it."

The council will offer housing support to victims and the perpetrators as well as working with other agencies including domestic abuse support charity Safer Places.

Councillor Emma Toal (Labour), cabinet member for youth and citizenship, said: "There is a big issue where we deal with the victim and not the perpetrator and there is repeat offending. They move on to the next relationship and it goes on and on."

Councillor Russell Perrin (Conservative) said: "It's a sad fact of life that there are people who want to harm others."

"I would like to think that within this organisation we don't have these kinds of things going on. It [the policy] might uncover things that are currently in the shade. I welcome it and its intentions."

The Essex Safeguarding Board encourages public bodies to undertake audits of their safeguarding practices in relation to both children and vulnerable adults.

Councillors voted unanimously in favour of adopting the policy.

Young curators create new exhibition at Gibberd Gallery

TEN young people from Harlow have organised the Gibberd Gallery's latest exhibition Dreams and Fantasy.

The newest show, which was officially launched by Harlow Council councillor and vice chairman Ian Beckett, incorporates the work of students from 18 primary and secondary schools in the town as well as pieces from students at Harlow College.

The exhibition forms part of the Young Curators' Programme and the team of 15-19 year-olds will receive their Silver Arts award for their work.

Cllr Beckett said: "It is a wonderful art exhibition and reminds us how empowering art can be in the hands of young people."

Dreams and Fantasy will be displayed at the Gibberd Gallery in the Civic Centre until Friday, April 25.

Schools pick up awards for their healthy agenda

MORE than 10 schools in Harlow have been handed a Healthy Schools Award by Essex County Council.

Across Essex more than 200 schools have received the Foundation Stage Award which is given for meeting 41 standards in emotional health and wellbeing, personal, social and health education, physical activity and healthy eating.

The awards were presented at a special ceremony by Cllr Ann Naylor, the county council's cabinet member for public health, and Cllr Ray Gooding, cabinet member for education.

The guest speaker was Tim Coulson, director for education and lifelong learning.

Cllr Gooding said: "I am delighted to see so many of our schools picking up awards, demonstrating the excellent work schools are doing."

In Harlow, Church Langley Community, Fawbert and Barnard, Hare Street, Katherine's, Purford Green, Tany's Dell and Henry Moore primary schools picked up the award.

Holy Cross Catholic Primary Academy, Mark Hall Academy, St Alban's Catholic Academy and Stewards Academy were also rewarded for their work to encourage healthy living.

Cancer specialist Sara training for Iceland lava trek

A LUNG cancer specialist at Princess Alexandra Hospital is in training for a spectacular five-day trek across the volcanic region of Iceland.

Sara Hymas, 39, of Morningtons, Harlow, is hoping to raise £2,500 for the Roy Castle Cancer Foundation - the only charity in the UK wholly dedicated to lung cancer.

She will be covering around 35 miles in total over the five-day lava trek.

"It is my 40th birthday, and I wanted to do something while I am well," said Sara, pictured right. "You never know what's going to happen and it was something I wanted to do."

"I'll be going in June and I want to raise £2,500 before I go. I'm nearly up to £2,000 already."

"I had a massive donation from the Moot Hall Social Club and I've had fantastic support from family and friends. Even the patients have supported me, which is amazing and very humbling."

"Everyone has been fantastically supportive, especially my patients with a lot of my sponsorship coming from them."

Sara added: "The trek is

scary. I did a 10k once and thought I'd never do anything like that again but I am training and it's going well. I'm really nervous though."

Sara, who is based at the Williams Day Unit, also runs a local support group for lung cancer patients, their relatives and carers in association with the charity.

She set up the group last year and members meet up on the first Tuesday of every month at the Paringdon Sports Club to share information, experiences and stories.

"It's not all doom and gloom," said Sara. "Patients, relatives and carers can share their experience and help each other out."

"We have a lot of information available from the Roy Castle Cancer Foundation and the feedback has been very positive so far."

Marathon mum's buggy fundraiser

IT was a charity event with a difference which helped fundraiser Donna Carr boost her running total to £1,000.

Donna, of Sadlers Mead, Harlow, organised a charity buggy walk starting from the Toffee Toddler Group's base at Old Harlow Baptist Church. It raised £107 for the NSPCC.

The 32-year-old will be running the London Marathon next month and is hoping to raise £2,000 for the children's charity.

She said: "We had 16 people turn up for the buggy walk and we walked over to St Mary's Church in Churchgate Street and back again, taking in some lovely hills along the way to enjoy a bit of a workout. "It was great fun and the kids enjoyed it."

"Some children were on scooters so we made sure the route was child-friendly and then we headed back to Toffee Toddler Group for a well-deserved cup of tea and yummy cupcakes made by my friend, Mandy Bunyan, which everyone donated some money towards."

Mum-of-two Donna's next fundraising event will be a family disco and raffle at Harlow Greyhound Stadium next Saturday (March 29) from 7pm. All money raised will go to the NSPCC.

Tickets cost £10 and can be bought on the door or in advance by calling Donna on 07738165112.

Supermarket staff raise money for two good causes

ASDA staff have been showing their support for groups in Harlow with in-store collections for two charities.

Harlow Foodbank volunteers managed to raise £1,454.92 over two days with a bucket collection to raise funds for the charity's van.

The supermarket also joined forces with the British Heart Foundation for a month-long fundraising effort. Volunteers took part in bag packing, selling badges and coin collections.

Just over £1,145 was raised for the BHF.

Rachel Forth, the store's community life champion, said: "Our customers are amazing and are so generous towards their local charities."

Road awareness day at fire station

FIREFIGHTERS at Harlow Fire Station in Fourth Avenue will be holding a road safety awareness day from 10am-4pm on Saturday.

It will focus on road safety for drivers and pedestrians and will include various activities for both children and adults.

"It is all about raising awareness," said a station spokesman. "We will have the fire engines out and lots of interactive activities for people to take part in."

"The whole day is about road safety awareness and anyone is welcome to pop down to the fire station. It's a great fun, educational day for families - adults and kids alike."

"Hopefully it should be a successful day and people will come away having done something fun and a little different and learnt a little bit more about being aware on the roads."

Surgeries offering free cat neutering

CAT owners in receipt of certain benefits, who are on a low income or who are students could benefit from a free cat neutering scheme.

Firefighters battle the hay fire at Latton Priory Farm

Firefighters tackle 800-tonne hay blaze

FIREFIGHTERS have spent three days tackling a blaze involving 800 tonnes of hay at a farm on the edge of Harlow.

Crews from stations in Harlow, Old Harlow and Epping were called to a field off London Road around 1.20am on Monday.

Firefighters left the fire to burn out but spent the next days monitoring the site. On Tuesday approximately 90 tonnes of the haystack was still burning. Yesterday the controlled burn was ongoing.

Crews are continuing to re-visit the incident to monitor the fire.

Go-ahead for town centre A-board ban

BUSINESSES will be banned from placing advertising boards in Harlow town centre following a campaign by disability groups.

Harlow Council will stop issuing licences for A-boards in the town centre on April 1, 2015, and after this time any unlicensed boards will be removed.

Councillor Emma Toal (Labour), cabinet member for youth and citizenship, said disability groups had been campaigning for the removal of "unnecessary street clutter".

"Blind people have been having real issues with A-boards," she said.

Despite endorsing the ban, councillors were keen to ensure that small independent businesses did not suffer as a result.

Opposition leader councillor Andrew Johnson (Conservative) said at a meeting of the council's cabinet on Thursday: "Small businesses always have problems but they are the lifeblood of the town."

He suggested that any money

GEMMA GARDNER

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

saved by the ban should be "reinvested into the town centre".

Councillor Russell Perrin (Conservative) echoed his comments: "These [small businesses] are the entities that make our high street look different from others."

Councillor Simon Carter (Conservative) said: "If all these people [disabled people] felt safer in the town centre then automatically there would be more trade. They are something that gives people more choice."

Licensing A-board is discretionary but the council is looking at alternative ways of helping small business including allowing advertising on lampposts.

Businesses who currently have advertising boards can apply for licences to take them up until March 31, 2015.

The move was approved by cabinet members.

Energy minister praises work of recycling co-op

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

ENERGY and climate change minister Greg Barker was in Harlow this week to visit the environmental conservation co-operative ECCO.

Mr Barker was joined by Harlow MP Robert Halfon for Monday's fact-finding tour of ECCO's shop in East Road.

They were welcomed by the charity's chief executive, Sean Folan, before being taken on a tour of the premises and meeting volunteers and staff.

ECCO, which was founded in 1995, recycles and reuses materials, furniture and other household items to sell.

The shop has been involved in several educational initiatives including the Harlow Environmental Visitor Centre, Pets' Corner education suite and Harlow's kerbside collection. It aims to spread awareness of sustainability and teach people how to preserve the environment.

Mr Barker said: "ECCO is a fantastic example of how you drive green energy by recycling and reusing furniture and other consumer goods that would otherwise be put in landfill."

"It is a great initiative to help people, particularly those struggling with the cost of living, and a brilliant example of innovative entrepreneurship that benefits the local community."

"This is exactly the type of scheme that the coalition is trying to improve. ECCO is something that the rest of Britain can learn from - today Harlow, next week it's rolled out across the country."

He added: "I am hugely impressed. The shop addresses a very real issue and the entrepreneurship provides an innovative solution that we would not get if it was just a local council or governmental

Mr Halfon, who spoke about ECCO in Parliament more than a year ago, said: "It is proof that environmentalism is not a luxury of the rich as is often believed.

"If we want to conserve and protect we can and we can actually help those who are the most vulnerable or on lower incomes. ECCO is one of the best examples we have of the big society."

Mr Folan added: "We are really quite proud of the fact that Robert has shown such interest in us. He opened both our shops and has always shown an interest and he asked Greg Barker to visit us, so we were very excited."

"What makes us special is we try to do everything with as much customer focus as possible and for the experience of donating items as well as buying to be as smooth as possible."

"We offer a professional service and a quality shopping experience to our customers who are buying."

Trio attacked woman waiting for ambulance

THREE people who attacked a young woman as she waited for an ambulance outside a Harlow nightclub have been spared jail.

Chelmsford Crown Court was told on Monday that Cherie Moore, 25, and her sister-in-law Kathleen Moore, 19, had attacked Kelsey Goldblatt in the toilets at Club 21 in Post Office Walk.

The pair punched and kicked Miss Goldblatt after she refused to buy items from a toilet attendant. They were ejected from the club but as they waited outside with Kathleen Moore's husband John, the victim emerged and all three resumed the attack.

Cherie Moore, of Littlebrook Road, Roydon, was found guilty of two offences of assault causing actual bodily harm. She received eight months in jail suspended for a year and ordered to pay £250 compensation.

Kathleen Moore, of Swanfield Road, Waltham Cross, admitted two offences of assault causing actual bodily harm and was given six months jail sentence suspended for 12 months and ordered to pay £250 compensation.

John Moore, of Harlow Road, Roydon, admitted assaulting Miss Goldblatt, and was sentenced to three months in jail suspended for 12 months and ordered to pay £100 compensation.

Passing sentence, judge John Dodd told them: "All three of you should be thoroughly ashamed. This was a very mean and unpleasant assault."

"She was a vulnerable victim outside the club waiting for an ambulance. She must have been absolutely terrified."

STEWARDS ACADEMY Pupils at the Parnall Road school have got the travel bug after heading off to Folgaria in Italy for a ski trip and spending three days in New York City.

Forty-nine pupils and seven members of staff flew to the ski slopes of Italy - the first the school had organised in several years.

While there they took part in ice skating, swimming and tubing as well as skiing.

Trip organiser Rob Treamer said: "It was a fantastic trip that hopefully has helped to develop our young people not only with the ability to ski, but also with some key social and physical attributes that will benefit them every day."

Students jet off to New York and the ski slopes of Italy

The New York trip was the 13th organised by the school and saw 44 Year 11 pupils and four staff spend time in the Big Apple.

On their arrival they were greeted by nine inches of snow but still managed to squeeze in sight-seeing trips to the Brooklyn Bridge, the Empire State Building, Central Park and the Statue of Liberty.

Organiser Debbie Fargeot said: "Every trip I have taken to New York has been memorable in a different way, but the weather presented us with particular challenges this year."

"The way the pupils coped with the challenging conditions without any complaints was really impressive. We all have some special memories which will last us a lifetime."

Essex needs friendly, caring residents to provide supported lodgings for young people.

Supported lodgings address the gap between leaving care and independent living, providing accommodation to young people aged 16 to 18.

To help the transition to independence the young people need their own room and support in learning the basic skills needed to live independently. In return we offer a weekly allowance as well as ongoing support and advice.

Gym team are crowned champions

JEOROUNDS JUNIOR A team of pupils scooped top prize in a countywide gymnastics competition.

The team were crowned winners of the Essex Primary Floor and Vault Plate competition. Each member was required to perform a floor routine of six linked moves as well as two vaults.

The team - Danny Raymond, Andre N'Goran, Levi Edwards, Devontai Marriott, Mitchell March and Kye Hasler - received a trophy for the school and a medal for every individual.

Team captain Mitchell also received an individual medal for achieving the highest floor routine score of 12.5.

Teacher Hannah Johnson said: "The boys performed brilliantly and were a real credit to the school. They have done exceptionally well considering the team was only put together in October, and their achievement highlights the hard work and effort that they have put into their training since then. I am very proud of them."

Room for reflection and prayer

BURNT MILL ACADEMY A special room offering students and staff a calm and peaceful environment for reflection and prayer has been opened at the First Avenue school.

Representatives from St Paul's Church, Harlow Islamic Centre and Harlow Synagogue were invited to the ceremony.

Assistant headteacher Paul Williams said: "We have students at Burnt Mill from a range of backgrounds, including Christian, Jewish and Islamic. We are conscious of their needs and wishes and are trying to accommodate those."

"This is just another part of our community cohesion work with students."

He added: "The use of the room does not have to be linked to religion. Any student or member of staff who needs time out can use the space during break times or after school."

Headteacher Helena Mills said: "The importance of this space goes beyond providing students of faith with a place to pray and meditate.

"We hope to model to our community that a multi-faith school, where students learn and respect different beliefs, should never cause conflict, only celebration."

Parents pop in for coffee and fun

LITTLE TREASURES Parents and carers of toddlers at the pre-school in Church Leys, Harlow, were invited to a coffee morning.

The idea was to give them the chance to find out more about how their children spend their days and take part in some of the activities.

Nursery staff member Jackie Simkins said: "It was a really good morning and all the parents seemed to really enjoy it."

"Parents were able to come in and have a look at the children's folders and the activities they're currently taking part in and learning about."

"We try to have a coffee morning every half term in order to keep parents in the loop about what the children are doing in nursery so it's great to see everyone together."

"It was a very positive day and the children and parents seemed to have a lot of fun."

CONGRATULATIONS if you've just got engaged! You're about to embark on the run up to one of the best days of your life and you will want to remember it for all the right reasons.

Planning your perfect wedding day can be both fun and exciting, but it's easy to get overwhelmed with all the different options out there. Just knowing where to start is a challenge in itself, but a little organisation goes a long way and this feature is a great place to start!

Think of the most basic thing first: what kind of wedding do you really want? You don't have to make specific choices, just aim for a general mood. For example, maybe you like the idea of a formal, more traditional day or do you prefer quirky, city glam or even just simple countryside?

Think about the best weddings and parties you've been to and why you thought they worked so well. This will help you prioritise what's important to you, whether it is plenty of dancing and great food or witty speeches and fun extras.

Next, have the budget conversation with your fiancé and parents or anyone else that is likely to be involved with the finances. Sit down together and work out what you can afford to spend.

Fix a date and a time, decide on numbers and start visiting reception venues and book your favourite as soon as possible.

Next send out 'save-the-date' cards and book your photographer and videographer, not forgetting the caterer, DJ and/or band.

If you're getting married in a church, you'll need to discuss readings with the minister or priest and music with the musicians. If it's a civil ceremony, find out what readings and music are permitted.

Next on the agenda are the fun things such as the dress, flowers and bridesmaids outfits – not to mention organising the honeymoon. Hen nights and stag dos can be as low key or as elaborate as you wish – but after all of that planning and preparation, it's fun to take some time out with your friends to party.

All that is left is to take centre stage on the day itself. Try to spend time with all your guests for unforgettable memories of your wedding day and, most of all, enjoy every fabulous moment!

PAH team showcase medical advances at innovation exhibition

MEDICAL staff from Harlow's Princess Alexandra Hospital have been showcasing two of the hospital's latest medical advances at a major international exhibition.

The team was given the opportunity to attend the Health and Care Innovation Expo in Manchester after winning a fast forward grant from the Intellectual Property Office last year.

They spoke about the metastasis analysis test which helps to detect metastatic breast cancer in the intra-operative setting while the patient is under anaesthetic.

The procedure can deliver the results in under 24 minutes and removes the need for a second operation resulting in savings to the NHS and enabling appropriate planning of cancer treatment.

The group also spoke about the hospital trust's use of digital pathology enabling quicker and more accurate diagnosis.

It allows faster and wider communication between pathologists within and outside the UK for further opinion on tissue diagnosis.

BIANCA CASTRO

The PAH team has been helped in the development of the two innovative processes by Health Enterprise East, the NHS innovation hub covering the east Midlands, east of England and north London.

Stuart Thomson, head of medical technology at HEE said: "This exhibition was an excellent place to highlight this groundbreaking technology which has been developed by the team at Princess Alexandra Hospital.

"HEE is helping the trust decide how to bring the [metastasis] assay to the point where it can be made widely available to the NHS. Showcasing the trust and its work at Expo was a great start in the NHS innovation adoption process."

MOTHER'S Day is the one day of the year we can usually persuade our mums to take a well-earned break without protest.

When it comes to other special days such as Christmas and birthdays, more often than not most mums will be largely responsible for the shopping, cooking and preparation. But on Mother's Day it's time to take a back seat.

Although very early Mother's Day festivities can be traced back to ancient Greece when spring celebrations were held in honour of Rhea - the Mother of the Gods - it was during the 1600s here in the UK when we started the tradition of Mothering Sunday on the fourth Sunday of Lent.

During this time many of England's poor worked as servants for the wealthy. Most jobs were located far from their homes and the servants would live at the houses of their employers.

On Mothering Sunday the servants were given the day off and were encouraged to return home and spend time with their mothers. A special cake, called the mothering cake, was often made and taken along.

As Christianity spread throughout Europe the celebration changed to honour the Mother Church - the spiritual power that gave them life and protected them from harm. Over time the church festival blended with the Mothering Sunday celebration and people began honouring their mothers as well as the church.

The United States was marking Mother's Day from the late 1800s but in 1914 President Woodrow Wilson declared Mother's Day a national holiday that was to be held annually on the second Sunday of May.

Although Mother's Day is celebrated on different dates around the world, it's still a great excuse to spoil our beloved mothers. Here in the UK it falls on Sunday, March 30 and if you're looking for ideas for a gift or a treat, this page is a great place to start.

NEWSThief steals BB King oil painting from art gallery

AN oil painting of American blues musician BB King has been stolen from an art gallery in Harlow town centre.

The theft took place from the West Gate gallery between 4pm on Saturday, March 8 and 9am on Monday, March 10.

The A4-size painting, which is valued at nearly £1,000, was reported missing by the artist.

Anyone with information about the theft is urged to call the Neighbourhood Crime Team on the non-emergency 101 number.

Whisky snatched

A LARGE quantity of "distinctive" Scotch whisky has been stolen from a shop in Harlow.

The thief climbed over a fence at the Co-op store in Maunds Hatch shortly before 7pm on Thursday (March 13) and took three boxes of 10-year-old Jura malt whisky.

Each box contained six bottles, worth a combined overall total of approximately £650.

Driver's lucky escape after her car bursts into flames

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsexnews.co.uk

A DRIVER had only seconds to get out of her car before it burst into flames in Harlow town centre as she was driving to a petrol station to fill it up.

Jenny Challis, 46, of Savoy Wood, Harlow, was driving out of the Water Gardens car park in her Ford Kuga on Thursday when she became aware of a strong smell of smoke and pulled over into a small layby.

She said: "It happened so quickly. I pulled out of Asda car park and everything was absolutely fine; it's not like the car failed to start or anything like that."

"I was just driving up to the traffic lights and I smelt an awful smell of smoke. It was really strong but I couldn't see anything so I thought it must be coming outside from the fields or something."

"I was on the inside lane and saw smoke so I parked up by the little layby. I quickly got out of the car and ran around to the back to get my little boy's car seat. Thankfully he wasn't in the car."

"Suddenly there were all these flames underneath the car. It happened in about 10 seconds and the car was just on fire. I didn't even have time to think."

The car, which is a write-off, was given to her by her husband as an anniversary present just over two years ago.

Jenny, a midwife assistant who had been on her way to fill up the car with diesel, said: "It was unbelievable, I've only just stopped shaking but it puts things into perspective. I'm just thankful my little boy wasn't in the car and that I didn't make it to the petrol station because that could have been a disaster. "I loved my car, it was a beautiful present but I'm just so grateful that I was on my own and I got out."

Jenny added: "The firemen came so quickly and they were absolutely wonderful. One of them told me it is likely to have been an electrical fault but there had been nothing wrong with the car until that moment."

"I'm really grateful to the firemen and to the two women who came and helped me and offered me their phones. They were so lovely."

Race organisers go ape at launch event

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PINK gorilla made an appearance at the Water Gardens in Harlow on Saturday for the official launch of the town's Cancer Research UK Race for Life.

Event organisers were also joined by a zumba group as they urged shoppers to sign up for either the 5k or 10k runs.

Gill Burgess, Race for Life event manager in Essex, said: "The launch was a great success and we all had a great day promoting Race for Life."

"Huge thanks needs to go to the Bodyshakers WRB zumba group and all the lovely volunteers who supported us. We received a very warm response from shoppers in the Water Gardens and hope that many of them went home and signed up for Harlow Race for Life after seeing us."

The organisers want at least 2,100 women and girls to take part and have set themselves a fundraising target of £138,000 to beat last year's total of £135,926.

"So far 563 ladies have already entered the Harlow Race for Life," said Gill. "We're hoping lots more people will sign up and we'll be able to raise lots of money for vital cancer research."

"Race for Life events are not competitive, they are not about being fit or fast. The reality on the day is that participants of all shapes, sizes and ages generate an electric energy as they unite in their determination to defeat cancer."

This year the Race for Life will take place in Harlow Town Park on Sunday, May 18. To register for either the 5k or 10k course - or for any other information about the event - visit the website at www.raceforlife.org or call (0845) 6006050.

Opening of new coroners court

GEMMA GARDNER

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A NEW coroners courtroom for the hearing of inquests has been opened by the Lord Lieutenant of Essex.

The courtroom with adjacent family rooms and office accommodation in Chelmsford has been designed to offer a more sympathetic environment for the needs of those attending hearings.

Until now inquests have been held at County Hall.

Lord Petre cut a ribbon at Friday's official opening ceremony which was also attended by the High Sheriff of Essex Julia Abel Smith and her predecessor, Lady Rosemary Ruggles-Brise.

Also present were Peter Thornton, head of the coroner system in England and Wales, and Essex County Council chairman Kay Twitchen.

Caroline Beasley-Murray, the senior coroner for Essex, said the new facility would help to provide support to people at an extremely difficult time.

"It's a fitting development at a time of national coronial reform and is helping to deliver the high quality service Essex deserves," she said.

"The people of Essex – and in particular the bereaved – are being provided with an improved, more efficient and more sensitive service."

Cllr Twitchen added: "When people come to the coroners court it is always at a very difficult time in their lives and it is important that we are now able to offer quiet, calm, dedicated facilities for them.

"The individual meeting rooms will be very valuable and I am delighted that we have been able to provide such pleasant surroundings for the coroner service."

Playground plaque in memory of Kathy

BIANCA CASTRO

bianca.castro@hertsessexnews.co.uk

A PLAQUE dedicated to the memory of a woman who worked tirelessly to create facilities for Harlow's young people has been unveiled in Potter Street.

Kathy Smith, who died in November 2008 at the age of 71, was secretary to Harlow Council's chief engineer of environmental services and provided administration support to head of facilities Joe McGill.

The plaque has been placed at the Potter Street playground and splash park.

Council leader Mark Wilkinson said: "Kathy did so much for children and young people in the area so it is fitting that the playground and splash park area are now dedicated in her name."

"The playground and splash park are the first stage in Potter Street's renewal so in future will become the symbol of the regeneration of Potter Street."

Cllr Emma Toal, cabinet member for youth and citizenship, added: "Kathy Smith worked hard with the residents' association and young people in the area. She was a very hard working local resident and deserves to be recognised."

A dedication ceremony was held on Friday. Among those who attended were Harlow Council chairman Linda Pailing, Cllr Wilkinson, Cllr Maggie Hulcoop and members of the Potter Street

Residents' Association.

Mrs Smith's son, Gary, said: "On behalf of her family I would like to thank Harlow Council for the beautiful plaque that was unveiled at the renaming ceremony. She would have been very proud to have been honoured in such an appropriate manner."

"Kathy supported the Potter Street local community and strove for facilities for the youth to have somewhere to meet and play. The Potter Street splash park was one of those areas which she wished the local youth would be able to enjoy."

WIN Tickets to National Gallery's Veronese exhibit

Paolo Veronese, 'The Conversion of Mary Magdalene', about 1548 © The National Gallery, London

ART lovers will be flocking to the National Gallery for an exhibition of works by Paolo Veronese, regarded as one of the most influential artists of the Renaissance period and one of the greatest painters of all time.

The exhibition - Veronese: Magnificence in Renaissance Venice - brings together under one roof about 50 of his most famous works including The Conversion of Mary Magdalene (pictured above).

The exhibition, which is sponsored by Credit Suisse and runs until June 15, is the first exhibition of its kind in the UK. It is the first, and potentially the last, opportunity to see his work displayed.

This week we are giving you the chance to win two tickets to the exhibition PLUS afternoon tea in the gallery. One runner-up will receive a pair of tickets to the exhibition.

Veronese (1528-1588) was one of the most renowned and sought-after artists working in Venice in the 16th century. His works adorned churches, palaces, villas and public buildings and influenced artists such as Van Dyck.

The exhibition brings together works from every aspect of his career including altarpieces, mythological, allegorical and historical pictures and portraits.

For a chance to win a pair of tickets and afternoon tea, just answer this question:

In which city was Paolo Veronese based?
a) Paris b) Venice c) London

You can email your answer to competitions@hertsessexnews.co.uk making sure you put 'Star Veronese' in the subject line. Alternatively, enter online at www.harlowstar.co.uk/Whats-On-Leisure and follow the entry instructions.

The closing date for entries is Tuesday, March 25.

If you do not win tickets but still want to visit the exhibition, you can book online at www.nationalgallery.co.uk.

Ambulance trust appoints a new interim chairman

THE East of England Ambulance Service has appointed a new interim chairman.

The NHS Trust Development Authority announced that Sarah Boulton will fill the £37,146 a year post left vacant following the resignation of Dr Geoffrey Harris.

Ms Boulton, who has a background in business and finance, has previously worked at NHS board level. She has chaired a number of NHS organisations, most recently at NHS Midlands and East Strategic Health Authority.

"This is a great opportunity to work with the board, staff and volunteers at the East of England Ambulance Service NHS Trust and be part of the team to improve the service," she said.

"This is going to take time but I am pleased with the actions which have already been put in place and the progress being made."

Chief executive Dr Anthony Marsh said Ms Boulton would bring a wealth of experience and expertise to the service.

The process to recruit a permanent chairman will begin in the next few weeks.

In the meantime Ms Boulton will take up the interim position immediately "to provide stability and expert leadership for the trust board".

Tragedy of man who fell into lake after Christmas party

star@hertsessexnews.co.uk

THE death of a man whose body was found in a lake near Harlow a month after he went missing from a Christmas party was accidental, a coroner has ruled.

An inquest at Chelmsford Coroner's Court was told on Thursday that asbestos surveyor Edward Gillespie "dry drowned" at Roydon Marina.

Mr Gillespie, 38, had been attending a works party on the night he went missing. He was not seen after he left the bar at the marina at midnight on December 12, 2012.

He was reported missing after he failed to return to his home in Luton the next day.

Following a month-long search involving specialist police teams, his body was finally recovered from the marina lake on January 26 last year.

Pathologist Dr Ian Calder, an expert in immersion deaths, told the inquest the level of alcohol in Mr Gillespie's urine - 311mgs per 100 ml - was "almost to the sense of getting unconscious".

He said it

FLASHBACK: Police teams carried out searches of the marina lake after Edward Gillespie, left, was reported missing in December 2012 would have been high enough to disorientate him and make him stumble when walking.

However, he said a post mortem examination revealed no water in his lungs and there were no signs he had inhaled water.

He gave the cause of death as cardio-respiratory arrest due to immersion.

Dr Calder added: "It's called dry drowning. He went into the water and it's almost as if it was the shock of that."

"If he had been pulled out within seconds he probably would not have survived."

The inquest was attended by Mr Gillespie's mother, Jane, and brother Robert, as well as other family members and friends.

After Mrs Gillespie reported her son missing on December 23 police carried out a search of the extensive grounds as well as buildings and moored boats, the hearing was told.

Mr Gillespie had booked into a chalet for the night of the party. His laptop, car and belongings were all still there and CCTV captured a few minutes of him walking alone across the car park near the bar between midnight and 12.30am.

Several weeks after he was reported missing, three boaters reported seeing a body in the water.

Police have ruled out foul play, the inquest heard.

Essex coroner Caroline Beasley-Murray recorded a verdict that Mr Gillespie was a fit, healthy man who died as a result of an accident.

She said Mr Gillespie had a very high alcohol reading which might have had an effect on how he was, the way he walked and the way he reacted once he fell into the cold water in winter late at night.

The coroner read out a letter from his mother in which she said: "I know we will probably never know exactly what happened to Edward that night of 21 December, but I do know that my son didn't commit suicide."

"He had too many plans and loved life too much."

The coroner recorded a verdict of

Zoo captures birth of rare tiger cubs

HIDDEN cameras have captured the birth of three tiger cubs at London Zoo.

The tigers were born to five-year-old Sumatran tigress Melati at the beginning of last month after a 106-day pregnancy.

The whole thing was captured on camera.

In the 1970s, there were 1,000 Sumatran tigers in the wild but there are now believed to be around 300.

The cubs arrived in the early hours, and all were born within an hour. The first cub was born at 00.28, the second at 00.59 and the third made its entrance into the world at 01.18am.

The cubs remain together with Mother Melati inside special "cubbing dens" with their mother only occasionally venturing away from her babies for food.

The zoo doesn't yet know if the cubs are boys or girls.

While mother Melati relaxes with her cubs, visitors to the zoo can still see six-year-old father Jae Jae in Tiger Territory.

FRIDAY Hardwiring huge, devastating grooves with intelligent and insightful rhyme, Hacktivist are not afraid to split opinion. Check out their sound tonight when they will be supported by Black Polaris and Far From History. Doors open at 8pm and admission is £7.

SATURDAY When Chas & Dave finished their farewell tour in 2011, keeping away from the piano was never an option for Chas Hodges. He quickly set about drafting in his son Nik, on drums and long-term friend Darren Juniper on bass, booking shows as Chas & His Band. Chas is now reunited with Dave and preparing for a spot at this summer's Sonisphere festival at Knebworth, but there's still a chance to catch him playing when he drops into The Square on Saturday. Sharing the bill will be Ed Tudor Pole who made a name for himself in the days of punk with his band Tenpole Tudor and appearances alongside the Sex Pistols. Tickets cost £8 and doors open at 8pm.

>> FORMED in Edinburgh in 1976, The Rezillos quickly made an impact on the UK music scene at the beginning of the punk/new wave movement. The band achieved chart success two years later with their biggest hit, Top of the Pops, while their debut studio album, Can't Stand The Rezillos, released in July 1978 is still considered a classic of the first wave of British punk. The Rezillos, supported by Los Pepes, will be playing at The Square next Saturday (March 29). Tickets cost £15 in advance (£1.50 s/c) and are on sale now.

Bringing back the Man in Black

gemma.gardner@hertsessexnews.co.uk

IT is more than 10 years since Johnny Cash died yet his music is as popular today as it ever was.

Later this month an album of previously unreleased studio tracks recorded back in the early 1980s will go on sale.

And fans of the Man In Black can relive all the magic when The Johnny Cash Roadshow visits Harlow Playhouse, bringing a musical adventure celebrating the career of a music legend.

Respected singer/songwriter Clive John, accompanied by The Spirit Band, capture the essence of what it was like to be at a real Cash show, taking audiences from the 1950s up to 2002.

The show features all the greatest hits as well as duets performed by Johnny and his wife, June Carter Cash - performed in front of a video backdrop with images from Cash's life.

Clive said: "Ten years ago I lost my best friend to cancer of the brain. Before he died he spent three years travelling with me on the road to almost every gig and was my righthand man/roadie and soul mate.

"Shortly before he became sick he gave me a double album of Johnny Cash's greatest hits. I instantly loved the sound. I put this album on repeat in my car and grew to love it more and more.

"After Chris died I put the Johnny Cash thing on the shelf until the movie Walk The Line came out.

"It's now got to the stage that I don't listen much to anything else other than Johnny Cash! The songs, attitude and style are completely right for the style of person/singer/musician I am and to my knowledge there is no other artist that captures what the great man did."

He added: "Many musicians think Johnny's music is very basic but opinions change when they try to play it well - they discover it's not just 'boom chika boom'. So I began the long hard road of getting the show to where it is at now."

Among those who have paid tribute to Chris reincarnation of the Cash legend is Johnny's daughter Rosanne, who said "His resemblance is uncanny. As a member of this family, the Cash family, I was in awe of how incredible the performances were."

>> The Johnny Cash Roadshow will arrive at Harlow Playhouse on Saturday (March 22). Tickets cost £17-£19; all the box office on (01279) 431945 or visit www.playhouseharlow.com.

Nothing Grimm about latest ballet production

JOIN Snow White as she tries to escape her evil sorceress stepmother in the latest production from Harlow Ballet Association.

When the magic mirror proclaims Snow White will be the cause of the Queen's downfall, she is forced to flee into the dark forest where she befriends a band of resourceful rebels.

The evil Queen uses magic in many ways and, with the help of her black ravens, attempts to destroy Snow White. But will the gift of a poisoned apple lead to the demise of Snow White, or will the rebels and the huntsman be able to save her and help her gain the throne?

HBA's production of Snow White is an exciting and dramatic adaptation based on the Brothers' Grimm tale. The show is a fast paced, energetic action-adventure performed by skilled dancers and devised by award-winning choreographer Hayley Burns.

The black ravens, huntsman, rebels and good fairies add a new and moving dimension to the story.

Hayley said: "The battle scenes have been an exciting challenge for both myself and the dancers.

"The relentless pace and complex routines help add to the drama of the performance. This thrilling, powerful dance drama, with its fabulous characters and excellent dancing, promises to be a truly captivating show that should not be missed."

>> Harlow Ballet Association will be performing Snow White at The Playhouse on Thursday, April 17 at 7.30pm, Saturday, April 19 at 2.30pm and 7.30pm and Sunday, April 20 at 2pm. Tickets are now available from the box office and cost £14 for adults, £7 for children or £40 for a family ticket.

THE IMPORTANCE OF BEING EARNEST Moot House Players present a three-night run of Henrietta Branwell's adaptation of the Oscar Wilde classic The Importance of Being Earnest. The show is honed from the maximum four acts to a comfortable 90 minutes or so but retains all the memorable bits and provides a pacy, atmospheric romp for the audience's total enjoyment. An MHP spokesman said: "The young blades and refined debutantes are enthusiastically played by Claire Quiley, Kerry Rowland, Dan Powell and newcomer Harry Tension. The imperious Lady Bracknell is a total delight - I won't spoil the experience by naming names at this stage just come along and discover." Tickets cost £8 (concessions £6) and the performances start at 8pm.

JAILBIRDS: Jack O'Connell and Ben Mendelsohn in STARRED UP

No holds barred in gritty and brutal prison drama

STARRED UP
certificate 18, 1h46m

THE sins of a jailbird father are revisited upon an embittered son in David Mackenzie's gritty drama.

Based on screenwriter Jonathan Asser's experiences as a prison therapist, Starred Up pulls few punches in its depiction of life behind bars, delivering a flurry of beatings as characters jostle for supremacy inside crumbling walls where everyone can hear you scream.

Squeamish audiences are sentenced to their worst nightmare - a journey into an unforgiving world where disputes are settled with a slash from a makeshift shank fashioned from a toothbrush and razor blade.

Prisoner officers are almost as cold-blooded as the offenders in their care, meting out violence to keep troublesome inmates in line. And if all else fails, the ringleaders are strung up from the bars of cells, their deaths falsely attributed to suicide.

At the centre of madness is 19-year-old repeat offender Eric (Jack O'Connell), who swaggers into his first adult prison as if he owns the joint.

Clothed in a regulation grey tracksuit, Eric is escorted to his cell where he expertly constructs and then conceals a makeshift weapon. An altercation with prison guards leads to a spell in solitary confinement and Eric is ushered before lifer Spencer (Peter Ferdinando), who rules the roost.

It transpires that Eric's father Neville (Ben Mendelsohn) is at the same facility and operates as one of Spencer's underlings. Their reunion after 14 miserable years of estrangement is far from happy.

While Eric exorcises ghosts of the past, he also attends anger management sessions led by a volunteer called Oliver (Rupert Friend), whose personal involvement with inmates is a source of frustration for sadistic governor Hayes (Sam Spruell).

Belfast's disused Crumlin Road Gaol provides a suitably claustrophobic setting and Mackenzie's cameras explore every nook and cranny, capturing a vicious assault in the showers that leaves us wincing in horror.

Punctuated by explosions of unsettling and graphic violence, Starred Up is reminiscent of Alan Clarke's seminal 1979 film Scum, which chronicled one young man's journey through the hell of a British borstal.

Mackenzie's film is almost as suffocating, anchored by a no-holds-barred performance from O'Connell that's a far cry from his formative years on groundbreaking Channel 4 teen drama Skins.

The 23-year-old Derbyshire actor electrifies every frame, offering glimpses of fear behind Eric's cocksure facade as he rages against an imperfect system.

Friend and Mendelsohn are compelling in support and Asser's script steadfastly refuses to polish any rough edges with pat sentimentality.

For these characters the milk of human kindness is always sour and they have no choice but to swig and swallow.

Tracey Waples Property Editor

RECENTLY my son introduced me to American TV sitcom Modern Family. I almost wish he hadn't!

I've got enough to do without watching extra TV thank you very much but this is really funny and it has got me hooked. I will find any old excuse to catch the latest episode.

As the name suggests, it highlights modern families today. Whereas a few years ago we may have thought of an 'average' household as mum, dad and two children, things are very different now.

The Office for National Statistics has just published figures for housing arrangements for families in the UK today. It showed how many extra families were living in multi-family households. There were 289,000 of these 'concealed' families in 2011 - a staggering 70 per cent increase since 2001.

The report also showed that more families are living at home with mum and dad or other relatives, as they struggle to buy a home or pay rent. The number of adult children aged 20-34 without either a partner or a child was even higher. Just over a quarter of them were living with their parents - that's 3.3 million young adults - a 25 per cent increase since 1996.

The biggest change, however, has been in the number of single person households. They have been rising steadily and are now the second biggest group at nearly eight million. In the past decade these numbers have been boosted by more people aged 45-64 living alone. The number of singletons aged 65 and over has risen, too.

Despite these extra people needing a home to rent or buy, house building has only just started to pick up again in the aftermath of the banking crisis. So for the moment, the upward pressure on prices and rents looks set to continue.

The Verso is a heavier car, though, so rather than try to change its power delivery the firm has focused on refining it, making it as useful in day-to-day driving as possible.

And they've done a remarkably good job. Toyota's engine mounts are different, designed to absorb more of the compact diesel's vibrations and prevent them from reaching the driver and passengers.

As long as your hands aren't resting on the interior trim, vibrations are almost undetectable.

This distillation extends to the stop-start system which uses an uprated starter motor to kick the engine into life. This kind of stop-start process can rattle your fillings out if it's badly set up so Toyota, believing that the Verso will spend most of its life in traffic, has smoothed out the restart into a buttery-smooth process that offers all the disturbance of a passing moth.

From the driver's seat there's more to appreciate, from the myriad storage compartments to the near-ideal driving position. The seats themselves are flat-based and offer little in the way of lateral support, but for gentle cruising they are comfortable.

There's a good view out of the Verso in all directions, too.

On paper the borrowed engine looks a little feeble next to the competition, but the reality belies the numbers. The Verso never really feels out of its depth and pulls strongly through the gears with two people and luggage on board.

It's quiet below 2,500rpm, but a boot-full of throttle will see it get a little rowdy.

The middle row of seats is mightily spacious, with child seat attachment points on the outer two perches. The third, fold-away row is definitely for occasional use only, but as kids always seem to travel with friends it might come in very handy.

A perennially comfortable ride seems to sum the Verso up. It's not a new-fangled exciting crossover and it makes no pretence to dynamism. But it's well thought-out by people who know how to make a great everyday family car, and the new engine is a perfect fit.

It deserves to do much better this year.

Scrap Cars

End of the road for your vehicle?

Responsible drivers scrap their vehicles at an Authorised Treatment Facility (ATF).

Because only an ATF can legally scrap a vehicle.
That means any pollutants will be made safe before it's recycled in an environmentally friendly way.

What's more, for certain types of vehicle you'll get a DVLA approved Certificate of Destruction (CoD).
A CoD proves that the ATF has told DVLA your vehicle has been scrapped and so is no longer your responsibility. www.direct.gov.uk/motoring

DOUBLE DELIGHT: Oliver Brooker (s)

Super Oliver gets to Herts of the matter with contest wins

SEVEN-year-old Oliver Brooker completed a memorable double when he won back to back U-8 red tournaments, securing a top county title with some outstanding displays.

The Harlow Tennis Club youngster battled through group matches, a quarter- and semi-final in a prestigious Hertfordshire U-8 red tournament, before triumphing in the final.

In his first match Oliver battled hard to win 10-8, but lost his second match 11-9.

He upped his game and went on to win the next two rounds of matches 10-7 and 10-3, putting him top and through to the quarter-finals.

Feeling tired, Oliver went 4-1 down but then found a fifth gear to battle back and triumph 10-7, putting him into the semi-final, which he breezed through 10-3.

His final opponent was Benjamin Lin, from Hertfordshire.

But he could not match Oliver's quality shot making and court game and he won the final 10-3.

Oliver had earlier triumphed in the Legends Red Masters grand final, where the top eight finalists from the winter tour competed for the masters title at the Southern Way club.

He beat four opponents with ease, displaying his superior ground strokes and attacking shots from the start.

In the final he was 5-1 down but dug deep to triumph 10-6, winning nine successive points in a row and producing a fantastic performance to become the Legends Winter U-8 Masters Champion.

Oliver was picked for the Essex Mini Tennis Red team for an East Area contest to be held at Gosling Tennis Centre in Welwyn Garden City on Sunday April 6. This involves 10 counties. This was after a successful trial.

His coach at HLTC Luke Spooner said: "This is an excellent set of results for Oliver and his team, and he has worked extremely hard with his tennis development and fitness training over the last six months and it is now showing with his on court success."

No mercy is shown

IT was tough going for Harlow as they went down 5-0 to champions Old Southendian III in division six south east of the East Men's Hockey League.

Most of the Southendians' goals on Saturday came from short corners.

Harlow came closest to scoring from a short corner and they are fourth in the 12-team table.

Servo Link are top and are four points ahead of second placed Harlow Town CC.

Double joy as Harlow teams seal indoor titles

THE future is bright for Harlow Cricket Club – after two of its young teams enjoyed success and illustrated their burgeoning skills in their respective indoor leagues.

Following on from the success of earlier teams, the U-11 and U-9 squads have now won their (Herts & Essex Cricket Centre (HECC) league titles.

Success was doubly sweet for the U-11s who entered two teams in the age group and ended up in first and second place, with the U-11 whites narrowly beating the U-11 greens.

Both teams showed great commitment and effort throughout their matches, with five bowlers in the HECC League top 10 and six batsmen in the top 10.

The indoor season was completed when the U-9s finished their group matches in top place.

"Having lost only two matches in a 12-game table, they always played with considerable endeavour and ability producing some outstanding performances," said Harlow Cricket Club spokesman Paul Baxter.

"The club is always proud of its young people and to have done so well during the indoor season is a credit to both them and their managers and coaches who have given up their time so freely.

"Every player has contributed to the success of the teams and it is great to see so much talent throughout the club.

"Just as important is seeing young people enjoying the opportunity to take part in their sport.

The title-winning U-11 side (players who featured in at least three matches) were: Ben Willis, Matthew Hart, Miles Baldock, Nathan McCarthy, Rees Galvin, Ben Yeats and Hassan Ali.

The triumphant U-9 team (players who featured in at least three matches or more) were: Abdullah Farooq, Ronnie Fuller, Ben Terrington, Ben Hart, Jack Duckmanton, Tommy Brewster and Muffadal Adamjee.

The teams are now gearing up for the start of the outdoor season which begins in April.

Lashings line up ex-West Indies star for gala game

THE first big name has been signed up to play for the Lashings All-stars World XI in a special charity match to be staged at Harlow Town Cricket Club in June.

Former West Indies Test spinner Suleiman Benn, right, has agreed to play in the exhibition game at the Ash Tree Field club on June 27.

Lashings chief James Lashings said: "I can confirm though that West Indian spinner Suleiman Benn will be appearing for the All-stars.

"Suleiman played 17 tests and 20 One Day Internationals for his country and will be with us for the start of the season and finish his stint with us at Eynsford on 6th July, playing in 12 games.

"As always we can never 100 per cent guarantee who will be appearing but barring an emergency Suli will be at those 12 games as he is only flying in to the UK to play for us.

"We hope to drip feed more names to the public as soon as we can so please bear with us as we button up the team." Harlow Town CC chairman Stuart Alderson said: "The day is about raising the club profile both locally and regionally. If we want to be seen as a serious and big club then we need to host events like this on a regular basis."

Businesses can buy tables of 10 hosted by a Lashings player for £650 (+VAT for businesses) while individual tickets are available at £55 (+VAT for businesses) a head.

A three-course lunch will be provided, including Lashings' entertainment.

Contact Alderson on stuart.alder@harlowtowncc.co.uk to book.

Meanwhile, first team skipper Ashley Alderson is preparing for the start of his Shepherd Neame Essex Cricket League season.

Experienced former Saffron Walden players Neil Gladwin and Joe Holland will play for the first team this season.

Although a renowned wicket-keeper, Gladwin will only bat, and in tandem with batsman and ex-Sawbridgeworth captain Holland will considerably boost Town's batting credentials, surely making them favourites to go up.

Ashley said: "Unfortunately Pegasus & Corringham CC, who we were due to play first league game of the season, have dropped out of the league as their ground has been sold to developers.

"This will put us in a position of playing catch up all year which is disappointing but should even itself out over the season.

"It's not the ideal start but we will look to get a strong replacement fixture if possible to make sure we are prepared to face Benfleet in week two.

"Other games against Oakfield, Parkonians and Basildon who both narrowly missed out on promotion last year will be tough.

"However, it will give us a chance for the players new and old to really show what they can do and in turn help us set expectations for the season.

"The relegated teams are generally strong and will be looking to bounce back as quickly as possible to division two, so the opening six weeks will be really challenging.

"However, if we want to be taken seriously as promotion contenders then we have to hit the ground running from the first match with performances and results."

Harlow pull out a victory from the jaws of defeat

THE Rams pulled off a remarkable win as they overturned a 20-point deficit at half-time to beat Upminster at home in London and SE division three north east.

The slope and strong cross-wind that had helped the visitors in the first half played a part in the Harlow comeback.

Upminster dominated from the start and exploited the weak home defence to score

Harlow 33
Upminster 26
(RFU London & SE, division three north east)

their first try.

Shortly after, two missed tackles gave them a clean run in for the try, and the conversion put the visitors 12-0 up.

On 20 minutes, a penalty by Harlow's Kurtis Knightley got the hosts on the scoreboard.

Upminster then scored a try from an interception and this was converted.

Another try and conversion were registered by Upminster before a second Knightley penalty left the visitors leading 26-6 at half-time.

Harlow started the second half well and a rolling maul move saw home captain Shaun Roberts dive for the line to touch down on 47 minutes. Five minutes later, Mark Bowering passed to Roberts to go over for his second try. Knightley kicked the conversion and the Rams trailed 26-18.

There was no further score until the 67th minute, when Mark Bowering set up winger Darren Hawkins who touched down for the try.

Knightley converted and then put Harlow 28-26 ahead with a 70th minute penalty.

With two minutes left, home number eight Kain Claridge broke and set up

Will Grimley to touch down an unconverted try in the corner.

It earned them a bonus point for their fourth try.

Harlow are now seventh in the league.

HARLOW: Knightley, Hawkins, Fricker (McMullen), L. Bowering, Grimley, Dobson, McGlone, Ephgrave, Stonehouse (Cunningham), Cunningham (M. Bowering), Twiner, Palmer (Eynon), Roberts, Drake, Claridge.

Rams' Irish Exile Joe making progress on rugby ladder

JOE Brett took a massive leap on the rugby ladder when he was picked for the Irish Exiles regional team.

The 16-year-old Harlow Rugby Club youngster and U-16s team captain had already played for a regional Exiles team and is tipped to progress further.

The St Marks School, Harlow student played in the first two rounds of trials in January and February, coming through successfully.

He then featured for the Exiles' Midland squad against their Northern counterparts.

The squad for the Irish Exiles national side will be picked from these matches.

The Irish Exiles will travel to Ireland for games against the four provincial sides.

The teenager, who lives in Churchgate Street, plays at outside centre. Joe qualifies for Ireland as his grandparents on his father's side are Irish.

He has been a member of the Elizabeth Way club since he joined the mini section five years ago.

Adam Clark, the Harlow Rugby Club youth section chairman, has watched with delight at Joe's progress.

Clark said: "We have seen him progress into a very good rugby player, with a level of commitment and positive attitude that all young players should aspire to.

"We rewarded his progress by awarding him the captaincy of the U-16s at the beginning of the season in September.

"He trains twice a week without fail, and apart from a short injury spell has played in every match [for the Harlow U-16s] this season. "As his manager and youth chairman I would like to say how very proud Harlow Rugby Club are of Joe and we wish him all the very best in his progressing rugby career."

Basketball coach Niaz dusts off his trainers to play crucial role in derby

HARLOW Hawks coach Shab Niaz had to dust off his trainers once again for his side's 71-65 derby victory at Ware Wolves in division two of the Herts Basketball League on Sunday evening. It was Niaz's second match in a week, due to the team being light at the guard position.

Hawks had already beaten Wolves at home this season and they started brightly, going six points up in the first two minutes.

Hawks moved the ball well with each starting player getting on the scoresheet. Rich Whytock, Dave Griffin, Russ Stonehouse, Tom White and Lee Jones all scored baskets and Alex Hinds came off the bench halfway through the quarter and added six points.

At the end of the quarter it finished 25-14 to the visitors.

The second quarter was more evenly balanced with a number of Wolves latecomers entering the game. Hawks only scored 10 points in the second period, with Russ Allan and Hinds combining for eight.

At the other end, the Hawks defence was mean and Wolves only scored 10 points themselves to leave the score at

In the second half, Wolves gained momentum and Hawks struggled to contain their 7ft 1in centre Richie Burgess.

Fortunately, Stonehouse stepped up with six points, including an all-important three pointer at the midway point.

Niaz also added points when they were needed just as Wolves started to reduce the deficit late in the quarter.

The lead was reduced to five points though by the end of the quarter at 48-43.

The final quarter was decisive with an early three pointer from Niaz giving the momentum back to Hawks.

Stonehouse and Hinds added four more points before another three pointer from Niaz stretched the lead to nine points. A Tom White slam dunk took the lead to 11 points but Wolves replied with an 8-2 run, before Hinds hit an important three pointer to close out the game.

The previous Wednesday night, Hawks were beaten 74-66 at home by Berkhamsted Bears. Lee Morris top scored for the Hawks with 12 points, Hinds and Niaz both bagging nine.

Hawks need to find that winning touch

THE Hawks face Tilbury tonight (Thursday) in the first of three vital matches over the space of six days as they seek to get their play-off bid back on track in Ryman League division one north.

Harlow Town then have two away games as they take on Erith and Belvedere on Saturday before they travel to face close rivals Waltham Abbey on Tuesday.

Saturday's home draw against AFC Sudbury meant they had not won any of their last four matches.

Hawks boss Danny Chapman said: "We have only got two points from the last four matches and we need to get maximum points from these games coming up.

"There are a few twists and turns still to come and we have just got to concentrate on ourselves."

Chapman will be without midfielder Jonathan Glowacki for the Waltham Abbey game and the game against VCD Athletic in nine days, after picking up 10 bookings.

In Saturday's match Sudbury had their moments and although Harlow were handicapped by some strange decisions by referee Elliott Kaye they created enough chances to have won.

The Hawks broke the deadlock in the 19th minute.

Harlow had a great chance to double their advantage in the 35th minute and this was missed in controversial circumstances.

Alex Read slipped the home defence before keeper Alex Archer tripped him and referee Elliott Kaye pointed to the spot. However, the man in black only gave Archer a yellow card and not a red one.

Reprieved, Archer dived to his left and cleanly saved Read's spot kick, much to the annoyance of the home crowd.

Chapman said: "Their keeper should have gone. He was the last man and the decision means he will be available for future games he should be banned from."

Sudbury equalised in the 52nd minutes. Harlow conceded a free-kick on the left and Sudbury left-back Jack Wilkinson's hanging set piece went into the top corner.

The hosts subsequently had the edge although they were vulnerable on the counter.

After Sudbury's equaliser neither goal was seriously threatened until the 78th minute when a Harlow attack saw a Read lob agonisingly clip the visitor's bar.

On 84 minutes, a bouncing shot from Dadson was turned round by a diving Archer for a corner.

Harlow's late pressure then saw Jamie Smith shoot narrowly wide after a neat move inside the visitor's box.

The second half also saw the debut appearance of right-winger Levi Mathurine who has been signed from Essex Senior League club London Bari.

Chapman added: "He showed some promise and was positive. He is very quick."
